Breaking Walls | Join, Create & Collaborate

Welcome to Breaking Walls!

Breaking Walls is an intercultural-international community that brings young people together through creativity, culture, dialogue, and leadership. We believe that every person has something valuable to share, whether it's a talent, a perspective, knowledge, an idea, or the willingness to create change.

This form is an opportunity to introduce yourself, express your interest in BW, and explore how you could become part of our community or collaborate with us.

Whether you're an artist, a young creator, a community member, an organization, a potential partner, or someone who simply believes in our mission, we'd love to learn more about you, what you do, and what we could make possible together.

Different backgrounds. Different talents. Shared possibilities.

Let's connect, create, and change things together.
